Make your commands known within your own town. Perseverance brings humiliation. The change alluded to in the middle of the hexagram has begun to take place. The wall of the town sinks back into the moat from which it was dug. The hour of doom is at hand. When matters have come to this pass, we should submit to fate and not try to stave it off by violent resistance. The one recourse left us is ...

The zigzag path was built by Gilbert White and his brother in the 1760s to provide better access to the countryside beyond. Allegedly the height of the path is 300 feet, but we discovered it was less than this. The actual height was a question in one of the Earthcaches, as was describing the underlying stone, and other salient features spotted on the path.
